

Domestic Violence Community Response Team for Fort Bend County

The Mission of the DVCRT is to provide a unified voice of citizens in Fort Bend County including victims, government, the criminal justice system, public and non-profit agencies, the medical community, businesses, the religious community and schools to eliminate domestic violence.

Purpose:

Individuals and organizations acting independently in Fort Bend county have responded impressively to the challenges of domestic abuse. Today, people in Fort Bend County are safer in their homes and perpetrators are being held responsible in much greater numbers. This recent progress encourages greater collaboration and coordination to:

1. Build upon the current strengths to conduct research on domestic violence in the county.
2. Fill in the gaps in services.
3. Coordinate services and policies within and between the systems.
4. Promote the most effective prevention, intervention, community education and treatment techniques.
